Florence School of Fine Arts at a glance

Florence School of Fine Arts is uniquely positioned to provide our students with a rich historical, cultural and contemporary learning experience. Florence, being the birthplace of the Renaissance, provides more than just exposure to art and design, but to all disciplines and their vital connections. At their roots, Florentines are artist and artisans with enormous pride in how they make art as an integral part of everyday life. Italy remains to this day the global center for artistic innovation and design.

Accreditation

The Florence School of Fine Arts is officially registered and accredited as an Italian Educational Institution through the Camera di Commercio di Firenze and Italian Government number(REA): FI - 629558

Florence School of Fine Arts (FSFA) operates under accreditation through its affiliation with the Academy of Fine Arts in Florence (Accademia di Belle Arti di Firenze), an institution overseen by the Italian Ministry of Education, University, and Research (MIUR). FSFA provides a distinctive range of courses tailored for both Italian and international students officially enrolled in the Academy.
